Pinellas Comic and Maker Con Coming October 17th (PCMCon)

By Chad Mairn and Greg Plantamura
Co-organizers of Pinellas Comic and Maker Con

The Seminole Community Library at St. Petersburg College invites you to Pinellas Comic and Maker Con (PCMCon) on October 17, 2015! It is the biggest comic convention in Florida's most densely populated county and is for fans of comic books, gaming, sci-fi, fantasy, anime, costuming, and maker culture! The event will be held from 10am to 5pm on St. Petersburg College's beautiful Seminole Campus, which is located on 9200 113th Street North.

Dozens of local businesses and organizations will have booths to sell fan collectibles, promote their upcoming events, and share their services/resources. PCMCon had over 3,400 people attend last year's convention and it was a lot of fun for everyone who attended. The convention is free and open to the public. It will feature special guests, activities for people of all ages, panel discussions, and displays themed around superheroes, gaming, sci-fi, anime, and collectible toys. Visitors will enjoy all that plus live entertainment, including music by the Ken Spivey Band, a Game of Thrones dance troupe, a living chess match, plenty of food trucks, and much more.

Science and technology geeks will get a look at the library's new Innovation Lab that includes a 3-D printer built locally by FreeFab3D, robots, Arduino and Raspberry Pi kits, virtual reality headsets, littleBits Synth Kit, a homemade hologram viewer, and more that they public can explore throughout the day. Other exhibitors specializing in "all things maker" will be on hand as well.

Special guests include Chuck Dixon, writer of countless Batman stories as well as Robin and Nightwing, and Nicola Cuti, co-writer of E-Man and Moonchild. Comic artists on hand will include Austin Janowsky and the amazingly talented Sergio Cariello!

PCMCon will have a costume contest (adult and child divisions) and a gaming tournament hosted by Gamers on the Edge to raise funds to help support local children's hospitals. Exhibitors include local comic book stores, game stores, and clubs as well as charitable groups like the Star Wars 501st Legion, the Real Tampa Bay Ghostbusters, and many more!

The controversial Parrish TARDIS (as seen on international news) will be there as well, for free photo ops, along with the control console, a Dalek, a classic Galactica Cylon ship, R2D2, and more!

All exhibitor fees are donated to All Children's Hospital via Gamers On The Edge. This convention has proven especially attractive to Pinellas residents who may not attend other fan cons because of the distance and/or cost. Young adults, children, and older fans alike will all find something to enjoy and for free!
